

Style Counts

It's a message proven over and over again by Apple, Nike and other leading companies that invest in designing products that work great AND look great. Let's face it. Behind an AV rack, style only goes so far. But out in front, where customers see and touch our products every day? Don't be fooled. It needs to look good. Professional. Reliable. Stylish.

The CW-1000 programmable IR wall mount touch panel sets a new tone in Pro AV control. It brings the right combination of function, reliability, value and, of course, style. Whether functioning in "Wheel" or "Button" mode, as a stand-alone IR controller, it has no equal. Or, take its IR output and wire it into a Calypso Pro I/O or ION controller and you have a whole new category of control, with flexibility and simplicity that's off the charts. And to top it off, the CW-1000 is designed with ease of setup, wiring and installation in mind - right down to an option for running IR and Power over a single CAT5 cable.

So get in touch with IDT and get your hands on a CW-1000. You won't want to let go. Promise.
